Washington, March 17.—In conversation
Washington, March 17.—In conversation, a Democrat, the Presidential probabilities were discussed. I gave him the line and the red inkied this story: "Has it over occurred to you," he said, "that if the Republicans rally upon a military hero for 1884, it will be necessary for the Democracy to antagonize them for the militon solder vote of this country by selecting a chieftian of Democratic antecedents, and of conservative constitutional record? In that event," said he, "no musicould be more eligible than General H. Gates Wright, Chief of Engineers of the United States Army. Immediately after the war, you will remember, some of the leading minds of Tammany Hall had determined upon General
Wright for the Presidency, and had a civilian been nominated for the head of the ticket, Tammany would have urged Wright for the second place."

"Then you think that General Wright for the seesses the qualifications for Precidential timber?"

"He is," said the New Yorker, "one of the seeses the qualifications for Freeidential timber?"

"He is," said the New Yorker, "one of the best executive officers in the Army, and his record as a solider demonstrates his thorough cour Government, and though not a politician, he is thoroughly conversant with the politician history of his country, and with the character of the prominent men who have figured in the history. I have no doubt, "continued he, "that if General Wright should be presented by the Democracy in 1884, New York, Ohio, Indiana, and Connecticut—his native State—will beld in the Democratic columns,"—Washing-ton Correspondence Unclinati News.

A SEDUCER KILLED.

George W. Conkling Avenged His Sister's Wrongs. The neighborhood of Twenty-third street and Eighth avenue, New York, was thrown into great excitement last night by the report that a murder had occurred in the Paris flat, at No. 341 West Twenty-third street. Investhat a murder had occurred in the Paris flat, at No. 341 West Twenty-third street. Investigation proved the truth of the report. The murderer is George W. Conkling, a United States surveyor on the Government surveys in Nevada, and he shot and killed William H. Haverstick, the seducer of his sister. Conking arrived in New York a few days ago, and stopped at the Leland House. About ten years ago his sister married a man named Uhler, with whom shot and she left him. Falling in with Haverstick, and came to New York and Obtained an interview with her. He succeeded in making her promise to go West with him, but she refused to live with her husband. Last night Conkling went on to New York and obtained an interview with her husband. Last night Conkling went again to see her, but was met by Haverstick, who flow into a rage and swore the woman should not leave the house. The two men came to blows, and when Haverstick selead a copper statue and flung it at him, Conkling drew a revolver and itred. The ball struck Haverstick in the pit of the stomach, inflicting a wound from which he alled an hour later. Conkling left the house immediately after the shooting, and, walking to the corner of Eighth avenue and Twonty-third street, surrendered himself to an officer. Unlew was a broker at 17 Broad street, Conkling said, and Haverstick had been his parrier. In this way he made the acquaintance of Mrs. Uhler. When his sister saw him she agreed to go with him to his Western home, and Sinday night was the time fixed upon to leave, when Conkling arrived at the house his sister was in an inner room, and heard only the noise of the quarrel. Conkling is 27 years old and Haverstick 30. He was a broker at No. 60 Broadway, and had lived with Mrs. Uhler shout two years. Conkling was locked up in the Twentieth-street police station, and refused to talk to report

The Washington Driving Club. The Washington Driving Club.
At a special meeting of the Washington Driving Club, held at the rooms of the National Fair Association, Vernon Row, last night, there were present Messra, William Smith, H. D. McIntyre, Joseph C. Rock, John Gheen, Frank K. Ward, F. M. Draney, A. J. Bidler, Ernest Burgdorf, George M. Oyster, A. W. Kelley, John R. Kelley, George Repottl, Samuel Ross and Dr. Smith.

Mr. Charles W. Hayes, having declined the presidency on account of pressing business duttes, Mr. George M. Oyster was unanimously elected to the office, and Mr. H. D. McIntyre was elected to the secretaryship made vacant by Mr. Oyster's promotion.

Mr. Ernest Burgdorf was elected a member of the executive committee.

Mr. Ernest purgator was elected a member of the executive committee.

Mr. Frank K. Ward tendered his resignation as a member of the same committee. He said he did not know anything about trotting horses or any other kind of horses. His animal acquaintance lay in another direction. He couldn't tell a spartin or the blind staggers from a hole in the ground, and believed every member of the executive committee should be a horseman. Mr. Ward's resignation was tabled.

the a norseman. Mr. Ward's resignation was tabled.

The president announced that at a meeting of the executive committee it was determined to make the president of the Fair Association an ex-officio member of the committee. The action was ratified by the club, and it was also decided not to allow the dates of the trotting meetings to conflict in any manner with the meetings of the Jockey Club.

It was decided to hold the inaugural meeting on the third, fourth, fifth and sixth of July. Thirteen thousand and eight hundred dollars will be given in stakes. A special purse will also be given by Mr. Frank K. Ward.

Singger Sallivan's Benefit.

The largest crowd ever brought together by any exhibition of the kind in Boston attended the benefit of John L. Sullivan last night in the Charitable Mechanics' Fair Building, 1,800 people being present. The street in front of the main entrance to the building was densely packed and thousands were turned away, it being impossible to gain admittance. The crowd in the main, though impetuous, was quiet, and the police had little to do to preserve order. Sullivan's first appearance was with Stove Taylor. Sullivan used but one hand, the left, on the offensive, and the honors remained easy. Tom Allen and Jimmy Murray, of New York, were next on the programme, and Murray got the best of it. Afterward came a very scientific contest between Sullivan and Joe Coburn, of New York, in which the former easily gained the vantage. The event of the night was the contest between "Fiddler" Neary, of New York, and Mike Gillespie, of Philadelphia. During the third and last bout they became so excited that the police had to interfere and separate them. Neary then asked the master of ceremonies to permit a continuance of the bout, and tillespie seemed not unwilling. The programme, however, was not violated, and it is rumored that the nixter will be settled privately.

on that account, but the laborers in Scotland and England are idle and hungry and dangerously impatient. You don't see all this in the editorials of the London newspapers, but you see it in the columns where the stories of the poor are told, and in the vastly increased number of crimes and violence. The manufacturers and trades of England are in bad condition. The English people are not nithilistic, and nover have been; and if they were there are ten cases in England for nithlism where there are one in Ireland. The Irish poor are the agricultural poor. The poor in England are the dangerous poor of large towns and mining districts.

"I do not assume to even suggest that either the acts of violence in Ireland or London have been concected by the enemies of Ireland. All Itensia upon is that the Irish party is honestly endeavoring to secure remedial eighstation through the rogular courses of Parliament; that the Irish party has no need to resort to such acts of public violence as have been charged against it, and that the Irish party has every reason to refrain from such illegal acts. I further may say that, whether or not the opponents of the Irish party have found it convenient to engender of invent acts of violence for the purpose of invent acts of viol
